Chapter 1 by Tailors <3

Beep beep beep beep

Jackson Pierre groaned and felt around for his alarm clock. Once he'd succeeded in silencing it he rolled out of bed and began getting ready for school. It was that dreadful day where the holidays end and school begins. He'd revived the email from the school saying that school started but he's simply discarded it, thinking that the holidays had been too short. Although he'd done this his mum must have set his alarm. He slowly walked outside and started up his motorbike.

He pulled up at the school and parked his motorbike. He took off his helmet and waked into the school. He walked through the crowds of students over to his locker, conveniently positioned next to a cork-board. He opened his locker, placed his helmet inside and got his books out. He closed and locked his locker and looked at the cork-board.

"I wonder if there are any new students?" Jackson said to himself. If there was a new student they would probably occupy the locker next his. It was one of the 3 in the large school that was still vacant.

Jackson turned to go to class when he was approached by the principle next to him stood a boy. He was dressed in the uniform but Jackson had never seen him before. New student. He looked at the principle solemnly.

"Jackson, this is Leonardo Forrester. I would like you to show him around the school!" The principle suddenly turned and walked away leaving the new kid in his hands.

Leonardo looked at him and smirked slyly. There was something off about him, and it wasn't the fact that both his eyes and his hair were two different colours. He just had a mood around him that made Jackson uneasy.

"All right then, Leonardo, follow me..."

"Call me Leo..."

"Okay, Leo, come with me..."

Leo followed Jackson down the grand hallways of the expensive school.

"Lets start with the courts..." Jackson mumbled.

Chapter 2 by Jonathan

Something happens to Leo and he goes missing

After showing Leo the everything he should know, he asked, "Okay, that everything, now what's your schedule?" Then Leo started fumbling through his pockets and pulled out his classes "I think this is it..." Leo said.

"Okay, lets see this." Jackson said as he took the paper "We have the same first period, Mr.Dickson's science class."

"Okay." Leo said, "Lets go, isn't it right down the hallway?"

"Yup." Jackson said as they walked to class. And then, suddenly after class, Leo was gone. Jackson, confused, went to find him and only found a note on his locker saying, "Leonardo Forrester has been taken to test facility-A for test 376-B under law of Division 12." Jackson was surprised, he had never heard of a test facility or law of division 12. He was also confused as to why he had to go to a test facility.

He had never been to a test facility before.
